MURDER IS NOW SOLVED

The solution of what heretofore appeared an impenetrable mystery, concerning the cause which led up to the killing of Wong Pook, on board the Pacific Mail liner Korea, but two days before the vessel reached Honolulu from the coast, has been cleared up following a successful raid by the police officers in San Francisco Chinatown.

It will be remembered that in broad daylight on the crowded steamer deck of the Korea, Wong Pook was shot three times and another Chinaman wounded, by Lee Hing Jou, a young Chinaman well known as a highlander of one of the tongs of the Lay City. Apparently the killing was the result of a quarrel over a game of poker, but in reality it was at the orders of the tong which is now reported to have employed Lee Hing Jou as its official executioner.

The raid brought to light several imprisoned slave girls, one of whom revealed the fact that she was once assisted in gaining her liberty through the efforts of Wong Pook. To avenge this action, the Chinese was alleged to have been a marked man. His part in the affair was discovered and he therefore fled to the Orient, but was stopped in his voyage through death from a bullet sent into his body by Lee Hing Jou.

DYNAMITE CASES

hands the fate of the prisoners released. That the testimony of Ryan and Hockin, given on the stand here, failed to count in their favor was also shown by the verdict against them. It was apparent that two factors in the case counted for more with the jury than anything else. One was the testimony given by Ortie E. McManigal, whose confession covered a vast range of explosions in different parts of the country and implicated at least a score of labor leaders in different cities. The other was the discovery of a great store of explosives in the vaults of the Ironworkers' headquarters in this city and another supply in a cabin on the outskirts of town.

The trial of the labor leaders followed as a natural sequence of the developments in the famous McNamara case in Los Angeles, in which, as is well remembered the two McNamara brothers confessed to having destroyed the building of the Times, of that city, causing the death of twenty-one persons. The United States government watched that case carefully and the indictments of more than forty prominent men in labor circles followed immediately. The full list follows:

Frank H. Ryan of Chicago, president International Association Bridge and Structural Iron Workers; headquarters in Indianapolis; released on $10,000 bond.

EASTERN PAPERS WAKE TO OAHU'S IMPORTANCE

Eastern papers have just waked up to the fact that the war and navy department have not been idle in regard to Hawaii during the past year, the work of the joint army and navy board last December, and the investigations of the Macomb-Morrison-Blakey-Wooten board last July, being sprung on mainland readers as something heretofore hidden by the government. According to Washington dispatches vast ammunition stores have been landed secretly on Oahu, while big guns supposed to be still at the foundry, have been smuggled ashore and mounted.

All this is rather amusing in its exaggeration, but one fact stands out with startling distinctness, and that is that the general public in continental United States is waking up to the scheme of national defense, and that every move toward securing the defense of Oahu is now being watched with interest.

For this reason the following dispatch to the San Francisco Examiner, under Washington date line of December 19, is of much interest locally.

It became known today for the first time that the War Department has perfected plans, most of which have been realized upon, which make Hawaii both the key to and Gibraltar of the Pacific, which for obvious reasons will not appear in any public document.

The plans were made within the last year by a board of officers whose names have not been printed, who worked jointly with a secret naval board, the latter having been given ample opportunity with ships to test every approach to the islands, and especially Oahu, which is dominated, as was thought, by the great defensive scheme at Pearl Harbor.

The hydrographic office furnished experts to work on the insular coasts, so that from new maps it is known to the war office precisely where any warship of any given draught would be stopped by shoal water.

The selection of sites for the large number of land batteries with which it is proposed to encircle the island was dependent on the invaluable reports of the hydrographic office.

There is actually in place, ready for use, a tremendous quantity of offensive material which, by a fiction of the department, has been said from time to time to be merely in "the stage preparatory to shipment to Hawaii."

For instance, tons of explosives have been taken off warships which carried them as cargo. There are also guns of big caliber on the island which, it was announced not long ago, were only "in process of manufacture."

It can be stated that the War Department officials who have charge of the defenses of the island are satisfied with the progress made that work is to be rushed now on the defenses of the Panama Canal.

KIHEI WHARF

al of the records in the office of the superintendent of public works, that almost the exact amount which the Kihai appropriation now lacks, to meet the figures set by Contractor Hugh Howell, has been paid to Hugh Howell for the surveys made some time ago.

While the exact figures are not available now, it is said that in some numbers the harbor commission has approved of two bills submitted by Howell, for two surveys, one for about $900 and the other for $200. This he cut the appropriation down to some think like $7850; Howell's tender for the actual construction now is $8640.

It was said today that the record in the superintendent's office will show that Col. C. J. McCarthy was in error yesterday afternoon when he declared the board had declined to approve the $900. His error, it appears arose from the fact that on bid, for making a survey of a site about a mile away from the one desired by the commission, was tendered Miss Carter, the stenographer, saying that this bill was for only about $5 and the records show it was disallowed. But two other bills, totalling $1100, were approved and the money paid Howell.

This establishes the fact that Howell is the sole bidder on a territorial job for which he virtually drew the plans and specifications. He of course is not a territorial official, but drew the plans at the commission's behest and on the recommendation of Marston Campbell, who, as chairman of the commission at the time, is declared to have stated there were no engineers in the department of public work available for this survey work and that Howell was thoroughly familiar with the site in question.

Whether Howell knew the size of the appropriation intended to cover the entire work of building the Kihai wharf, including the surveys, is a question the commissioners are now pondering. But of course it was not his business to know if he didn't want to, he naturally is in business to make money, and he has done nothing illegal, they admit of course.

Two men working at Saskatchewan traveled all the way to Belgium to marry two girls selected by drawing lots. Though they had not seen the brides-to-be, their faith was rewarded and the happy couples have reached New York on their return trip to Saskatchewan.

C. P. R. TRIES TO GET EXCURSION STEAMER

Some weeks ago it was announced by the local promotion committee that the Canadian Pacific Railway had been planning three excursions to Hawaii during January and February next, one of which will touch Honolulu and from here visit some of the South American ports and then go on up the coast to San Diego and San Francisco, returning from there to the starting point in Canada, and now the plans of the railroad have been more definitely disclosed by W. H. Brodie, general passenger agent.

Mr. Brodie writes that at present he is on the outlook for a suitable steamer for the excursions, but up to the present time there are none available for the proposed trip, but he feels that one can be secured in a very short time, and from the interest taken in the Hawaiian Islands by the Canadians three steamers can easily be filled with tourists eager to make the trip. His idea is to secure the most comfortable steamer possible, that the excursionists will feel at the end of the trip that it was an excursion worth while.

As a result of the lecture tour of Canada which has just been completed by Walter G. Smith, the Canadians have taken a great interest in the Hawaiian Islands and are looking upon them as an ideal place in which to spend the winter, and requests from all over the Canadian northwest for information and literature of the islands are continually coming into the office of the promotion committee. Hawaii gets an unusually large tourist trade from Canada, and it is thought that, should these excursions be carried through, they will be the cause of a greater number of Canadians coming here during the winter and at other times.

No definite dates have as yet been set for the arrival of the first excursion here, but it is thought that it will be some time near the middle of January.

SUPERSTITIONS IN ELECTIONS

The subject of election superstitions and fallacies is very interestingly treated by Edward Stanwood in the current number of the Atlantic Monthly. Going back a bit he refers to the belief, so often reiterated that had almost been accepted by many, held prior to the re-election of Gettysburg, that no man possessed a middle name could be chosen to the presidency a second time. It was then pointed out that John Quincy Adams, Martin Van Buren, William Henry Harrison and James Knox Polk had not been re-elected. In the case of General Grant the theory failed only to be carried out in the following instances: Hayes, Garfield and Arthur, all having middle names were not re-elected; William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt and Grover Cleveland were.

Another superstition to which Mr. Stanwood alludes is that no United States senator can be chosen to the presidency and in the political history of this country this theory has not been overturned. Mr. Garfield had been chosen a senator from Ohio when nominated for the presidency but had not taken his seat. Other than this partial infringement of the rule all attempts of senators to achieve the presidency have ended in failure. Thus here are the cases of Jackson, who was a senator when defeated in 1824; Clay, Douglas, Cass, Seward, Cameron, Davis, Hunter, Congdon, Meron, Sherman, Edmunds, Bayard, Maine, Thurman, Logan, Allison, Lockrell, Cummins and LaFollette, all of whom were candidates for the presidency or for presidential nomination and none of them were successful in attaining the highest office in the gift of the people.

In this list are many men who left their imprint written heavily on the pages of history, many who were finely fitted for the presidency, in some instances, better equipped than their successful competitors. The reason for their failures is not that they were in the eyes of the public, disqualified because of membership in the United States senate, a membership that should add rather than detract from their qualifications for the higher office, but possibly, as Mr. Stanwood says, "that senators arose a certain amount of antagonism against themselves or do not arouse enthusiasm for themselves." In any event the coincidence is a peculiar one.

PRICES MAINTAINED IN DULL MARKET

Next to nothing was done on the stock exchange today, a sale of 5 shares of Brewery at a half point advance to 21.50 being the only business. Sales of Oahu and Oia were reported, both unchanged except for a recession of an eighth point in Oia for 7 shares, the loss being recovered in a sale of 50 shares at 4. Of Oahu 26 and 5 shares sold at 23.62.

For the five business days ended at noon today the sales on exchange amounted to $29,624.87, as compared with $38,655 for the six days ended at the same time last week, or a decrease of $6130.12.

The cost of the new docks at New York is estimated at $150,000,000. The city will select the choicest property along the Brooklyn waterfront in order to give the city one of the largest municipal dock systems in the world.

Young Man:

You must wear clothing during 1913 as was customary during 1912. Our stock has not been depleted in the least by the heavy trade of the last few weeks. Our goods keep coming right along.

Many a young man gets a benefit from good clothes that's much greater than the cost of them. We're working along that idea every day in the year and have produced in Honolulu for young men the styles and models that will give them the greatest measure of smart fashion, with the highest degree of quality-value, and without going to such style extremes as to undo the good that such clothes can do.

Youthful models, youthful colors and patterns, youthful weaves; designed and cut by special young men's experts, sizes for the big, brawny football athlete or for the small and lively "rooter."

LOCAL MOOSE FAMILY IS PLANNING MONSTER CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

That most loyal order of the Moose, which is domiciled here is planning a monster Christmas celebration in the Hawaiian Opera House tomorrow afternoon. Arrangements have been made to provide Christmas presents for more than half a thousand members of the Moose family in Honolulu, and before the affair is over it is expected that at least eight hundred packages will have been given away. The celebration is for the members of the herd and their immediate families, although outsiders are welcome to come and hear the singing and speechifying. The ceremony will begin at half past two o'clock and will continue until all the presents have been given away and the last of a host of orators shall have exhausted their eloquence. The program follows:

March, "National Emblem" Bagley, Military Band of Schofield Lodge No. 1060, L. O. O. M.; Motion Picture, "Christmas Festivities"; Overture, "Poet and Peasant" Suppe, Military Band of Schofield Lodge No. 1060, L. O. O. M.; Assembly of Honolulu Lodge No. 800; Prayer, Prelate L. D. Timmons, Bro. E. W. Bull, Acting; Opening Ode.

Addresses by Officers: Welcome, Ambrose J. Wirtz, Dictator; Purity, Clem K. Quinn, Vice Dictator; Aid, E. W. Bull, Prelate (Acting); Progress, C. H. Brown, Junior Past Dictator.

After remaining in jail last night, Clark this morning waived preliminary hearing and was held to the federal grand jury under bond of $1,000. George A. Davis, retained as his counsel, was busily engaged today endeavoring to obtain the necessary bail.

The present charge against him is that while he had a wife at San Francisco he married Miss Olivia Enos Gouveia, a Portuguese girl, here on November 22. As evidence in the case the district attorney has the affidavit of a brother of Theresa Sciaroni, of San Francisco, stating that James C. Steele, later known as Clark, married Theresa Sciaroni at Holy Cross church, San Francisco, on October 2, 1908. The affidavit is accompanied by a photograph of Steele, and bears a close resemblance to Clark, save that the picture shows a face surmounted by a mass of bushy, curly hair. Clark is distinctly bald. Breckons is inclined to think that the picture is that of Clark, and that he merely wore a toupee when the photograph was taken.

A delegation of Indians called on President Taft; the old chief made a long speech in his native language, then paused waiting for the interpreter to "come through." When only embarrassed silence ensued, the old chief announced in much disgust: "He doesn't get me!"

GOSH, WHAT A RUDE 'BARON'

He Asks Harvard's President About the Vulgar 'Eats'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 2.—President Lowell of Harvard had a "put over on him" when he was introduced to "Herr Baron von Koppel" at the banquet recently given the Harvard football team by the Boston alumni. The "Baron" is President Lowell talking for five minutes, the educator telling of the most distinguished foreigners that have visited Harvard, while the "Baron" in broken English dwelt principally on the beauties of the hotel in which the banquet was being held, and asked the conversation with the query: "What time do they chase the cat on board?"

Later the "Baron" William Edmunds, class of 1900, proved the host of the evening. His digression was so perfect that none of the 700 diners knew him except the half dozen who planned the joke.

A great regium service will be held in Westminster Abbey in London in honor of the late William Reid. Prince Arthur of Connaught will act as the personal representative of King George.

On the occasion of the celebration of the centenary of Anglo-American peace to be held in London in 1914, the erection of a monument to George Washington to be placed in Westminster Abbey is proposed.
